The Palestinian Legislative Council
A Handbook
The Washington Institute
Handbook of Palestinian Legislative Council Members

This Handbook is intended as a reference for analysis of the members of the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC), particularly with regard to tracking their positions on issues relevant to the Israeli-Palestinian relationship. Its contents were derived from open sources and are therefore reliant upon the accuracy of these sources. This notwithstanding, every attempt has been made to verify each entry via secondary sources and thus ensure all data within are as true, accurate, and unbiased as possible. However, The Washington Institute cannot guarantee that in all instances these criteria are met. For this reason, The Institute requests to be notified of any errors or clarifications that would improve the quality of the contents of this Handbook.

Currently, only biographical data and quotations are included in the Handbook. No attempt has been made to draw conclusions regarding the specific political orientation of each delegate. However, the quotations accompanying each entry are suggestive in this regard. The data will be updated periodically as more information becomes available.

Biographical Information
- Born 1951
- From Umm Tuba, Southeast of Jerusalem
- Resides in Umm Tuba

Personal History
- Completed primary and preparatory education in Sour Bahr School
- 1971 Completed High School Studies in al-Aqsa Legislative School
- Completed military training in Beirut as a member of Fatah
- Jailed for the first time in 1974 for eleven years. Released in Jibril deal of 1985, when 1150 Palestinians were freed in exchange for three Israeli soldiers held by the PFLP
- 1987 Joined Hamas upon its creation
- Was an Imam in Mosques in Umm Tuba and in Israeli prisons
- 1998 Imprisoned in Israeli jail for arms possession and support to Hamas cells in the West Bank; freed in mid-2005
- In late May 2006, was threatened with loss of residence permit in Jerusalem if he did not leave Hamas. Residency was stripped from him one month later, after the Shalit abduction.
- Arrested by Israel following Shalit abduction

Notable Quotations
"Hamas has no problem with the Prisoners' document's demand for a Palestinian state in all the territories occupied in 1967 but does not accept its recognition of international decisions that indirectly mean recognition of Israel."
--Haaretz, June 8, 2006

The following is from The Jerusalem Post:
- "I'm from this house. I have been living here not for 20 years not for 50 years not for 100 years. Um Tuba existed well before this. We have been here from the time of the Muslim arrival in the seventh century... Would you accept anyone taking you from your house and throwing you out of your house?"

- "There is a passage in the Koran about the tribe of Israel which says 'If I instruct you to kill them or to force them to leave their homes no one will do so except for a very few... Do you know what the meaning of this is? It means that throwing someone from their home is equivalent to killing them and only very few would do such a thing to someone else."

- "It's like putting a cat in a corner. What will he do? Everything he can to get out... I'll go to an Israeli court because we are under occupation. We have no choice but to go to an Israeli court. The injustice being done to me because of this issue forces me to go to an Israeli court."

- "The prison administrators were fearful of him. If he told the prisoners to do something they would," – a fellow prisoner on Abu Tir during his time in jail
• "Some are famous for their ‘military experience’ while others are famous for their social networks. Tens of thousands of people know Abu Tir: the prisoners and their families. That he was listed as number 2 on the Hamas list was a message from Hamas about his status and its concern for Palestinian prisoners.” – a Hamas source on Abu Tir

• "Am I supposed to raise my hands in the air?... We never once liked the killing and blood and the explosions on the buses he claimed. Not Jews nor Arabs not Muslims nor Christians... We don't want to massacre the Jews and we don't want to throw them into the sea.”

• The violence will end “when the occupation ends.”

• "The difference [between us and Jewish fighters like Menachem Begin] is that the Jews came from the outside and occupied our land he said. We are fighting to get it back.”

--The Jerusalem Post, June 8, 2006, upon embarking on a court case to retain his Jerusalem residency

"Even though I have reservations about the [Prisoners’] document, I trust [Sheikh Abdul Khaleq al-Natsheh, the Hamas signatory of the document and a friend of Abu Tir’s from time spent together in prison]. People inside jails live in a situation where they could never betray the principles on which their factions are based on."
--Christian Science Monitor, May 31, 2006

"We came up with the reform and change project based on deeply rooted constants which we will never cede.” – following Hamas Parliamentary victory in January 2006
--The Palestinian Information Center, February 2006

"I frankly say Israel does exist. It does exist."
-- Ma’bat Newscast, January 2006

"My favorite author is Charles Dickens, but my favourite book is the Holy Koran."
-- The Telegraph, February 2006

"We are going to lead factories. We are going to lead farmers."

"We are angry - very, very, very angry. No one can say a bad word about our prophet." – on the Danish Cartoons

"There are traditions here that say that a woman should take a secondary role - that she should be at the back, but that is not Islam. Hamas will scrap many of these traditions. You will find women going out and participating"
-- BBC News, March 2006

"We will bring back Islamic thought and heritage through the media and through education. These people will come to understand their culture. But we will not seize their freedoms from them."

Notable Quotations
The following is from al-Hayat al-Jadidah, Ramallah, in Arabic, February 7, 2006:

• “Hamas initiated direct contacts after it won the elections to secure financial resources for the Palestinian Authority and these contacts were positive on the part of the Gulf countries and many Islamic countries expressed their readiness to support us materially and morally” – on Hamas receiving external financial support from Iran and others

• Hamas “can form a government even if no other parties participate in this government… it is a social movement and has the necessary experts, manpower and technocrats and can form a government alone, but we seek participation and not unilateral exercise of power. This is why we asked everybody to join the government.”

• “A deputy who is in prison can exercise his role through consultation and submission of proposals.”

• "We are being informed on the hour about all that Hamas undertakes and it consults us on all contacts it holds and we express our viewpoint and participate in any decision the movements makes.”

• “Hamas will not recognize the road map for it contains a provision on the recognition of Israel and the movement cannot recognize Israel. Therefore, it rejects the road map.

"We, in the Hamas movement, do not support the disqualification or exclusion of any person and are making efforts to work together with all factions of our people in the spirit of political pluralism in order to build the homeland and to substantiate the process of change and reform which will serve the future of the Palestinian people.” -- al-Quds, in Arabic, January 10, 2006

• Conducted meeting before Shalit’s abduction; fielded calls from Khaled Meshal from Damascus
• Arrested by Israel following Shalit abduction

Notable Quotations
"We won’t let anyone bring us down. Hamas can see cracks in the international boycott of the Hamas government. To make sure the referendum fails, Hamas is enlisting Fatah men, including parliamentarians and security officers, buying their loyalty. Hamas is preparing intelligence briefs and profiles on senior Fateh officials and members of the officers’ class in the armed forces. Most of the focus is on Mohammad Dahlan's people as well as Rashid Abu Shbak and Tawfik Tirawi."—following his phone call from Khaled Meshal
--Mideast Mirror, June 23, 2006

"We have spoken with many lawyers and they have told us that it is illegal for Abu Mazen to call a referendum… His announcement contradicts the basic law and we will present our evidence in the parliament today."
--Agence France Presse, June 12, 2006

"There is a right to resistance, and our entry into the parliament will legitimize this right…"
--The Boston Globe, January 2006

"We are open to Europe and the Arab world and we have no problem sitting with the Israelis to discuss municipal affairs."
--Associated Press, December 2005

"The trend that Hamas adopted in the first place was to enhance the political partnership's principle as Hamas was very much concerned to have all Palestinian factions, especially Fatah, represented in the next government. Thus we hope that our brethren in Fatah would rethink their stand of boycotting the government."

--Associated Press, March 2006

"Anyone who thinks the calm means giving in is mistaken. The calm is in preparation for a new round of resistance and victory..."
--Ha'aretz, February 2006

"We are not playing at terrorism or violence. We are under occupation. The Israelis are continuing their aggression against our people, killing, detention, demolition and in order to stop these processes, we run effective self defense by all means, including using guns."
--BBC, January 2006

"We can accept to establish our independent state in the area occupied in '67 and we can give a long term hudna. If the Israelis are ready to give us the national demand, to withdraw from the area occupied in '67, to release our detainees, to stop their aggression, to make a geographic linkage between Gaza Strip and West Bank, at that time, and with assurance from another side, we are going to accept to establish our independent state... and give up one or two, 10, 15 years' time in order to see what is the real intention of Israel after that."
--CNN International, January 2006

"Negotiations are a means. If Israel has anything to offer on the issues of halting attacks, withdrawal, releasing prisoners...then one thousand means can be found. Negotiations are not taboo."
--BBC, January 2006

"Palestine means Palestine in its entirety—from the [Mediterranean] Sea to the [Jordan] River, from Ras al-Naqura to Rafah. We cannot give up a single inch of it. Therefore, we will not recognize the Israeli enemy's [right] to a single inch. That is one thing."

"That could be the way to solve the problems of the Palestinian people," on the possibility of a "technocrat" government, comprised of experts from various fields and excluding the Hamas and Fatah politicos who were then in power
--- The Forward, June 23, 2006

"I think we are going to agree to the document."—on coming to an agreement with Fatah on the Prisoners' document. Adwan said if they could not agree, Hamas would consider stepping down from the government
--- Agence France Presse, June 18, 2006

"Unfortunately, the EU is standing in the rank of the oppressor against the oppressed while it is justice to ask Israel to stop its unabated crimes in order to have a just peace for all" — objecting to strict EU economic policy towards Hamas

Atef Adwan said that if there were a peace proposal similar to that proposed at the last set of talks, in Taba in 2001 (two states living side by side, a return by Israel of almost all the land occupied in 1967, a shared status for Jerusalem and an agreed solution for Palestinian refugees), "Hamas would think seriously about the offer". He is also softer on doctrine: Sharia would be desirable as the main source of Palestinian law, he says, "but you can't have a stream that goes against the world".

-- Jerusalem Post, June 27, 2005

The following quotations are from a June 26, 2005 Jerusalem Post article about conflict between Hamas and the Palestinian Authority over control of Gaza prior to the disengagement:

• "Hamas has asked for the formation of a national committee tasked with dividing up the land evacuated by Israel, but no one trusts the PA to handle such property… The PA security branches breach all laws and confiscate land for their own use "

72
• "Hamas is not looking for war booty. We consider the withdrawal a victory for the resistance movements; therefore we don't want the resistance movements to be smeared over fights for booty."

• "We would not want to see an important event like the disengagement ruined by the PA's destructive unilateral behavior regarding the people."

"It is not unexpected that Hamas is again accused of terror by the Bush administration...this administration is totally and clearly biased towards Israel and its positions are Zionist."

"I don't think we are diminished at all. The popularity of the resistance movement is gaining in general," on the common criticism that Hezbollah’s ability to strike Israel has exposed Hamas' deficiencies
--The Daily Telegraph, July 21, 2006

"These are the conditions of all the Palestinians including the families of prisoners and martyrs" – explaining Hamas refusal to compromise their demands in the negotiations for the return of Gilad Shalit to Israel
--The Jerusalem Post, July 3, 2006

"All indications show that since its establishment, Israel has never been in such a state of retreat and weakness as it is today following more than four years of the intifada. Hamas’s heroic attacks exposed the weakness and volatility of the impotent Zionist security establishment. The withdrawal marks the end of the Zionist dream and is a sign of the moral and psychological decline of the Jewish state. We believe that the resistance is the only way to pressure the Jews."

"This American position is not legally based. It is a very biased and aggressive position against the Palestinian people, and it neglects the suffering of those who have been the victims of aggression. America should not stand with the Zionist occupation against the Arabs. This issue adversely affects the credibility of the US and distances it from adopting just positions in the Middle East conflict."

Notable Quotes

"I knew that the end of the month of September [2000] would be the last opportunity before the explosion, but when Sharon arrived at the al-Aqsa Mosque it was the strongest (most suitable) moment for the breakout of the Intifada. I saw within the situation a historic opportunity to ignite the conflict. The strongest conflict is the one that initiated from Jerusalem due to the sensitivity of the city, its uniqueness and its special place in the hearts of the masses who are willing to sacrifice themselves [for her] without even thinking of the cost."

Notable Quotes
"I'm looking to the future, and I don't want the tragedy to continue. We need peace for both Israeli and Palestinian children, so other families won't have to go through what we did. The two peoples can build strong ties after we achieve our rights...It's a very beautiful country. Great efforts were made to raise it to such a high level of civilization. I hope we can live with each other."

"It was clean. There were proper roads. Now I found everything destroyed. There are no roads, the city is dirty and there has been a population explosion. But the people are beautiful, and they gave us a great welcome" – on Gaza’s decline

"One woman in the National Authority is not enough," she said. "They have to be involved in all levels of government."
-- New York Times, August 4, 1994

"Now that there's a Palestinian government, I will work hard to make sure that women get equal rights and justice. We will regulate these Islamic laws in a way that will protect women...I feel sad that Abu Jihad is not here with me on the land of Palestine and cannot feel all the love that people have for him. But I know his spirit is hovering over us and I'm sure he sees and he approves."
-- Chicago Tribune, July 20, 1994

"The Israelis thought that when they killed Abu Jihad they would also kill the intifada," she said. "But they are wrong. His assassination gave our people more determination to continue ... to defeat the occupation...I do not want that any more women, Jewish or Palestinian, lose their husbands or children or loved persons. We feel it is enough killing, it is enough blood, it is enough war...We want our children to return to our homeland, to live in peace in a free and democratic Palestine."

On his side, Mr. Majed Abu Shammala, Secretary General of the Palestinian Prisoners Society, praised Abu Motlaq's efforts in defending the cause of the Palestinian prisoners, and his continuous efforts to provide better living conditions for them inside their prisons and detention centers.

Abu Shammala called on the new Palestinian cabinet, headed by Prime Minister Mahmoud Abbas (Abu Mazen) not to commit to any security promises nor implement the Roadmap until signs of mutual trust and facilities have been shown by the Israeli government, represented mainly in the release of Palestinian prisoners, and lifting the embargos and closures on the Palestinian territories.

In addition, Mr. Abu Shammala called also on the Palestinian people to adhere to the cause of the Palestinian prisoners, and work together in harmony to join the campaign to release the Palestinian prisoners, who spent many years in the occupation prisons.

--International Press Center, May 6, 2003

"This is an unprecedented measure aimed at closing the Rafah crossing. Israel tried many times to impose Abu-Salim crossing as the only entry, but failed" regarding the Israeli suggestion that Palestinians trapped in Egypt use the Kerem Shalom crossing into Gaza, and not the Rafah crossing

We need a national program "under which we can cancel all private agendas and achieve the national and public interest."

Notable Quotes
"We received ruined hospitals with poor equipment and a very low level of services."
-ArabicNews.com, June 1998

"President Abu Mazen was clear in his presentation. From the beginning he gave the opportunity for a dialogue, and we had the Prisoners Document as the basis of this dialogue and national understanding. Unfortunately, some of the Hamas members of the Legislative Council launched an initiative and requested an emergency session of the Legislative Council to be held to discuss the referendum. This was a presidential order, and the Legislative Council cannot argue the legality of this presidential order because it is the authority of the judicial system."

"We represent the conscience of the Palestinian people, and we demand to reach an agreement because without an agreement our people will suffer. The salaries have not been paid, the streets of Gaza are filled with garbage because the municipalities cannot pay salaries. The examiners of the high school exams are on strike because they have not received their salaries. The killing of Palestinians by the Israelis is still there, and the bleeding in Gaza. Certainly, there is the internal conflict, and the practices of the executive force which ignited a reaction in the Palestinian arena. There are many issues that are more important to us as members of the Legislative Council, and we are trying to deal with them and to remove the seeds of temptation and -- to be adopted by the Legislative Council."

"We need to reach an agreement and a consortium by the dialogue to what is best for the Palestinian people, and to introduce this to our people and our Arab nations, and to confront the occupation in order to be able to make it stop its practices, and to liberate our land with the help of God."

Jamal Hwail, 33, who has been in an Israeli jail since April 2002 on accusations he was an al-Aqsa leader, won a spot on Fatah's list from the town of Jenin. If elected, he plans to send written proposals to parliament and use a cell phone he smuggled into his jail cell to stay in touch. His first priority if elected would be to fight corruption and his second would be to secure the release of prisoners like himself, he said in an interview with The Associated Press over the cell phone.

"The program on whose basis Hamas ran for the elections was a general program that focused on domestic issues. It was not a comprehensive program, meaning an integrated political program that covered all the concepts of Hamas. I believe that the program that was submitted and distributed during the elections did not contain all the Hamas concepts and ideas on all issues. The program focused on issues dealing with daily life and subsistence means in general and spoke about the resistance in a general manner without going into the details of the forms and types of the resistance."
--BBC News, March 25, 2006

"Abu-Mazin persuaded the Americans to have Hamas participate in the elections. I believe that even Israel was not serious in its opposition to Hamas participation in the elections and I confirm that it was not serious. All the analyses confirm this. Second, I challenge any person who can prove that the Fatah movement has taken a single US dollar from the US administration, though the US administration declared otherwise. The US administration said that it has offered funds to candidates from Fatah and others. This means that it has funded individuals and I am a candidate. I challenge anyone to prove that the US administration has paid a single dollar to Fatah as a movement."

- Arrested 11 times
- Target of Israeli attacks on both his headquarters and his personal motorcade during the second Intifada

Notable Quotations
Dahlan said Israel is withdrawing for three reasons:
1. It became too much costly to Israel to keep occupying the Gaza Strip and the West Bank.
2. This will give Israel the chance to reinforce its occupation of the West Bank
3. To show Israel negotiating on the final issues.
Dahlan affirmed that if we manage to deal well with the withdrawal, PNA and the Palestinian people will:
1. Have a state of peace and understanding.
2. Enjoy confidence of the international community regarding having fair power and authority on the ground.
3. Send a clear message to the Israeli people that you too can now enjoy peace after leaving our land

"Certainly we will join forces in facing Israel, and Hamas announced that it will join its forces, will lead a struggle against Israel and also will run bases. I hope Hamas will succeed in those three things."
-Frontpage magazine, February 13, 2006

"The reoccupation of the Palestinian territories in the north of the Gaza Strip and the establishment of a buffer zone will not bring security and stability to the Israelis but, on the contrary, it will form a permanent focus, open a new front and will lead to a cycle of retaliation in the region."
-Ma'an News Agency website, July 7, 2006

• Leader of the al-Aqsa Brigades
• Founded a Fatah school for Leadership Skills in Rafah

Notable Quotations
"Fatah withdrew from the session because this is an illegal meeting... The parliament has no right to discuss the referendum and try to ban it. Today's session means they are confusing executive and legislative powers."—on Hamas objections to Abbas' right to call for a referendum.

"There is a determination by President Abbas to go ahead with the referendum and we know from experience that if he wants something to happen on time, as he did with the elections, it will happen."
--Christian Science Monitor, June 14, 2006

"There is such despair in Gaza: some are ready to sacrifice anything and this creates fertile soil for growing al-Qaeda...They support al-Qaeda because they are angry at the American support for Israel and they see al-Qaeda hurting the Americans. We have a proverb to describe this: 'The enemy of my enemy is my friend'."
--The Sunday Times, April 9, 2006

Two of the committee members, Mahmoud Musleh and Ashraf Juma’ah, presented a working paper to their colleagues in which they explained that the failure of the PA security forces and the courts to take tough measures against collaborators was one of the reasons behind the growing anarchy in PA-ruled areas.

Member of PFLP since 1969

Biographical Information
- Born 1953 in al-Bireh
- August 2002 - Younger brother, Mohammad, was killed by Israeli soldiers

Personal History
- Trained as a math teacher
- Member of the political bureau of the PFLP in the West Bank
- October 3, 2001 - Elected Secretary General of the PFLP following the killing of Abu Ali Mustafa on August 27, 2001
- 1995-1996 Arrested three times by the PA
- January 2002 - Arrested and imprisoned in Jericho in connection with the assassination of Israeli Minister of Tourism, Rehavam Zeevi; held under U.S. and British supervision despite a Palestinian court ruling which favored his release
- August 2002 - Sadat began a hunger strike to protest his detainment
- February 2003 - PA refused to release Sadat unless the PFLP promised that it wouldn't hold Arafat and the PA responsible if Israel harms him after he's released
- March 2006 - Seized by Israel in a IDF raid on the Jericho prison; refused to recognize the Israeli military tribunal's authority to try him and the judge, in turn, refused to hear his bail application
- Presently serving time in Israeli prison
- Loyal to the "original" principles of PFLP (George Habash)
- Opposed to the Quartet's Road Map to Peace; Widely viewed as a hardliner
- February 2006- Sadat affirmed that PFLP would welcome a political partnership with Hamas

Notable Quotations
"The Palestinian Authority knows full well who is behind this security chaos. Of course there is a difference between the guns that we use against the Israelis and the guns that are being used to create this chaos. The Palestinian Authority must put an end to this situation right now and of course we believe the elections can help repair the Palestinian home. We didn't stand in 1996 because of Oslo. We thought at that time, and still think, that it is an agreement that cannot deliver the Palestinian people their rights. Now Oslo is no more, we decided that we would stand along with other parties to build our state."

Notable Quotations
"This agreement (the “Swiss Agreement”) represents the views of those who signed it, it doesn’t represent the views of the Palestinian people…This is both a personal and collective right, nobody, no matter what position he occupies, has any right to give up a right that does not belong to him… As the Oslo Agreement was a corruption of the UN Security Council resolution 242, this agreement is a scandalous corruption of the Oslo Agreement."
--al-Jazeera, October 14, 2003

"We actually hold Fatah responsible for corroding and weakening the PLO. Hamas refused to recognize the PLO as the sole representative of the PLO, calling that entity ‘anachronistic, undemocratic and unrepresentative of the Palestinian people.’"

• Known as an active defender as women's rights

Notable Quotations
Regarding the IDF raid on Jericho..."As a Palestinian I feel very despondent, and see this as yet another materialization of the Israeli occupation. These are political prisoners being held inside a Palestinian prison. And they were attacked with tanks and helicopters as if they were resistance fighters armed with weapons. This demonstrates that such agreements, with so-called American and British monitors, do not in themselves guarantee the lives or protection of prisoners. Especially with an occupation that every day raids and attacks and kills and assassinates and detains...The Israeli occupation will continue with its policies regardless, and as a result we cannot reach any kind of agreement with them. Only by bringing an end to the occupation can we truly protect Palestinians and Palestinian prisoners. Practically speaking, the goal of the agreement was to transfer these people to a Palestinian prison under American and British supervision until Arafat's siege ended. But Arafat was kept under siege until he was killed."

Notable Quotations
"Kidnapping and occupation of a soldier becomes license for collective punishment of a whole people, while kidnapping and occupation of a whole country remains beyond accountability by the international community."
-- Iowa City Press-Citizen, July 18, 2006

"Generally speaking, any outside leadership that is not in direct daily contact with the people can afford to be more hard-line and to take more purist positions and ideological positions, while any leadership that is in contact with the people and is more sensitive to their needs begins to understand the need for flexibility, pragmatism and compromise."

They were arresting me and I only tried to resist being arrested."
-al-Jazeera, December 11, 2004

"The most urgent issue facing the Palestinian people is to focus on the implementation of a national salvation program to renew the confidence of the masses in its leadership after being shaken due to numerous erroneous practices. This is also essential for rebuilding national unity on sound democratic foundations, challenge the Israeli military occupation to our land and realize the legitimate rights of our people towards independence and the establishment of the Palestinian state with Jerusalem as its capital and the rights of return for our refugees is secured."

Notable Quotations
"Women don't have the right to cry; it's only the privilege of men. A male MP, even a minister, can cry. It's normal. It's not being emotional, it's being intelligent. But women don't have the right to be weak, to cry, to show our emotions – because we live in a time when to be in politics, we have to behave more like a man."

For interview with Rawia al-Shawwa see Australian Broadcasting Corporation Lateline, February 26, 2002

1. Ms. al-Shawa chose to run as a member of Independent Palestine, and secured a seat on the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC) as a result of the efforts of Independent Palestine colleagues, supporters and volunteers. While she could have run as an independent candidate for Gaza, it is well known that Ms. al-Shawa would not have achieved the level of votes needed to gain a seat on the PLC without the Coalition’s backing.

2. The fact that Ms. al-Shawa is seeking to evade her legal, political and financial commitments to Independent Palestine, whose members have channeled all their energies and resources into her successful election to the PLC, is not behavior fitting of a member of parliament. By breaking the written, legal commitment signed by her and all other members of Independent Palestine to respect and implement the decisions of the Coalition Council, she has turned her back on her colleagues and friends, and her responsibilities to those who voted for her. Ms. al-Shawa’s split from the Coalition represents a moral, legal and political violation of this agreement.

3. Independent Palestine refutes claims made by Ms. al-Shawa in a public statement that her resignation was carried out with the Coalition’s knowledge and acceptance. Ms. al-Shawa has avoided attending Coalition meetings since her election, and by doing so, she has avoided her responsibility to the principles of united, participatory leadership that the Coalition represents. Independent Palestine hopes that Ms. al-Shawa will rescind her decision to leave the Coalition, and that she will continue to work with them towards achieving their objectives. However, should she abide by her decision to resign, it is only right that she give up her seat on the PLC to the successive Coalition member.

Independent Palestine will maintain its legal rights towards ensuring that this step is taken.
