The real threat to U.S. interests in the region isn't rising Chinese influence, but the erosion of Washington's influence.

Will China broker a resolution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict? It is a question nobody is asking, because the answer is obvious—not a chance. Yet after Beijing hosted Iran-Saudi talks that led those two rivals to re-establish diplomatic relations in March 2023, some observers wondered if China had supplanted the U.S. as the Middle East's diplomatic broker. Since Hamas's Oct. 7 massacre, China has put such illusions to rest: its conduct shows that it is less interested in the success of its own initiatives than in the failure of Washington's. The real threat to U.S. interests in the Mideast isn't rising Chinese influence, but the erosion of our own...
