Articles & Testimony

Three Israeli experts analyze the strategic quandaries raised by Beijing's vocal support for Hamas during the war.

The conduct of China and Taiwan since the October 7 massacre reflects differences in their interests, objectives, and strategic positions with respect to Israel, the Middle East, and the international arena. While China is opposed to Israel and sympathetic to Hamas, Taiwan shows sympathy and support for Israel. In spite of this emerging clarity, however, Israel should not change its fundamental policy on either side of the Taiwan Strait at this stage...
