Articles & Testimony

In a sector (and region) where conditions can change on a dime, the role of President Trump's recently established "National Energy Dominance Council" is difficult to define.

On July 5, there was a (virtual) meeting of ministers from the OPEC+ oil cartel, organized from its headquarters in Vienna. There was a time when the world looked on, petrified, when such meetings took place, particularly during a Middle Eastern crisis, wondering by how much oil was going to go up in price and what the knock-on effect on the price of gasoline at the pump would be. That was then. This is now...
