

Articles & Op-Eds

The Houthi War Machine: From Guerrilla War to State Capture

*Michael Knights*

CTC Sentinel

September 2018

---

The Houthis are more than capable of becoming a 'southern Hezbollah' on the Red Sea, a threat that continues to drive the Gulf coalition's coastal campaign.

The Houthi rebels have been at war with the Yemeni government almost constantly since 2004. In the first six years, the Houthis fought an increasingly effective guerrilla war in their mountainous home provinces, but after 2010, they metamorphosed into the most powerful military entity in the country, capturing the three largest cities in Yemen. The Houthis quickly fielded advanced weapons they had never before controlled, including many of Iranian origin. The story of how they moved from small-arms ambushes to medium-range ballistic missiles in half a decade provides a case study of how an ambitious militant group can capture and use a state's arsenals and benefit from Iran's support...

To read the full article, download the PDF above or visit the CTC website.